

MR. STRODE IS IMPROVING AFTER BAD AUTO ACCIDENT

Maysville Ice Manufacturer's Skull Is Not Fractured as at First Thought—Particulars of the Accident.

Word from Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall Strode, who are patients at the Kings Daughters' hospital in Frankfort where they were taken following an auto accident Sunday afternoon, is to the effect that Mr. Strode is much better and is not so seriously injured as was at first thought. Mr. Strode did not suffer a skull fracture and regained consciousness Monday.

The car which struck the Strode machine was driven by Prof. M. B. Beebe, a member of the faculty of Transylvania University, Lexington.

The accident was peculiar in that neither car was overturned or much damaged, both leaving the scene under their own power, and the occupants of neither car were injured. Mr. Strode was thrown against the side of his car, and was unconscious when lifted into another machine and taken to the hospital, accompanied by Mrs. Strode and their son. Seeing the Strode car skidding, young Strode had steered their car to the bank of the ditch before the crash took place.

Professor Beebe expressed his keen regret for the accident and concern over the condition of Mr. Strode. Dispatches had stated that the name of the driver of the Lexington-bound car had not been learned. He said that he had given his name and address to several persons at the scene.

Professor Beebe was coming home from Louisville. He said that rain on the oiled road had made it very slippery and he was proceeding with caution and at moderate speed. He had just cleared the top of the hill and drew out to pass the Strode car when his rear wheels skidded and swung the machine entirely around, the back of it striking the back of the Strode car after completing the circuit.

CANCER WEEK BEING OBSERVED IN STATE

Attention of Kentuckians Is Called to the Insidious Cancer Which Is Causing Much Suffering and Death.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14.—With the cooperation of the State Board of Health and the Kentucky Society for the Control of Cancer, Kentucky this week is taking part in a nationwide observance of Cancer Week, which the National Society for the Control of Cancer made arrangements to have observed all over the United States during the seven days beginning Sunday. Dr. Irvin Lindenberger, of this city, is the state chairman for the movement.

The work in Kentucky is being handled very largely through the public health nurses of different counties in the state, every one of whom has been supplied with posters and pamphlets to be used in this campaign to acquaint the public generally with the dangers of the disease.

"The particular necessity of this intensive effort to acquaint the public with cancer," Dr. Lindenberger says, "is due to the insidious character of the disease and to the fact that so frequently its presence is not even suspected until it is too late for curative measures."

"There are four danger signals that may mean cancer: Any lump, but especially one about the breast; any irregular bleeding or discharge; any sore that does not heal, but particularly one about the tongue, mouth or lips, and persistent indigestion with loss of weight. Any person who has received one of these warnings will have himself examined thoroughly and immediately. Of course, it may not be cancer, but then, it may be and if it is the sooner the person suffering with the disease knows of its presence the better."

JURORS BEING SUMMONED BY COUNTY SHERIFFS.

Circuit Clerk James B. Key Tuesday delivered into the hands of the sheriff the list of jurors for the grand and petit juries for the December term of the Mason Circuit Court which opens on the first Monday in December. These men will be summoned within a few days for jury duty.

GRAND RUSH FOR HUNTING LICENSE.

The hunting season in Kentucky opens Wednesday and Tuesday has been a mighty busy day with County Clerk A. M. January and his deputy, Miss Murphy. There are always scores of hunters who put off getting their hunting license until the very last minute and then there is a rush.

Mrs. Ben B. Poyntz, of Ft. Thomas, and Mrs. Waters Howe, of Orlando, Fla., arrived Tuesday at noon for a visit with Mrs. Alice Spence and Mrs. James B. Wood.

COURT HOUSE IS LIKELY TO RECEIVE
STUCCO COVERING

County Infirmary Superintendent Rosser Designs Position He Has Long Held—Meeting of Fiscal Court.

The most important business transacted at the semi-monthly meeting of the Mason Fiscal Court held at the court house Tuesday was the discussion with experts of the matter of covering the court house with granite stucco. The commissioners all seemed to favor this improvement but because of a shortage of funds the work will have to be deferred. It will probably be done after the first of the year.

Superintendent H. H. Rosser, of the County Infirmary, gave to the Commissioners his resignation effective the first of next April. Mr. Rosser, it is learned, will move to his farm in the county. The resignation was accepted with reluctance by the Commissioners for Mr. Rosser has proven a most efficient and faithful officer.

UNFAIRNESS CHARGED AGAINST TOBACCO MEN

Cincinnati Tobacco Dealers Charged With Unfairness By United States Trade Commission.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Nov. 14.—More than a score of Cincinnatians and a dozen local firms engaged in the cigarette and tobacco business have been cited before the Federal Trade Commission charges that they have engaged in practices tending to stifle competition and restrain trade. It is charged in the citation that they "have been and are using unfair methods of competition" in the sale of cigarettes and tobacco.

The charges are widespread in scope and include tobacco and cigar stores in all parts of the city. It is charged that only dealers who are "favored" by the controlling combination are enabled to obtain popular brands of tobaccos and cigarettes. The reason for the failure to supply the complaining dealers, according to the charges of the commission, is that these dealers are inclined to cut prices.

The charges are brought by the commission itself and the complaining dealers are held anonymous. The commission has the power to make recommendations to the United States Attorney regarding prosecution, either criminal or for violation of the interstate commerce law. The Federal Trade Commission has been meeting secretly in Cincinnati for two weeks and has been examining witnesses and testimony.

PEOPLE RESPOND TO ROLL CALL OF LOCAL RED CROSS

Directors of Red Cross in Their Campaign for Membership in Maysville and Mason County Are Meeting With Decided Success.

This is the second day of the drive for Red Cross membership. Reports come in to headquarters indicating that the good people of this city and county are responding liberally to the appeal of this wonderful organization.

Since the first of January, 1922, the Mason County Chapter of the American Red Cross has handled the cases of over three hundred ex-service men, helping them get their compensation straightened out, seeing that they have medical treatment when needed, when they are unable to pay for such treatment themselves, and doing everything in its power to help the ex-service men and their families. Drawing no line of color, race or creed, it carries succor to the helpless wherever they may be.

The Mason County Chapter of the American Red Cross has helped locate many lost boys, of whom their families could get no trace. Some of them were dead, whilst others were still in the military service of their country, but letters from their loved ones had failed to reach them.

By enrolling during this period as a member, or renewing your membership if you enrolled last year, you can do your part in making possible the continuance and expansion of the service of humanity that has become synonymous with the name and emblem of the Red Cross. It is to be hoped that no one will refuse to join the Red Cross when called upon by the good ladies and gentlemen of the various precincts.

NO MASTODON BONES ARE FOUND IN BATH

Investigation in Bath County of State University Scientists for Prehistoric Bones Proves Unproductive.

No mastodon remains were found in excavations near the old salt licks in Bath county by the party of Lexingtonians who spent the week end at Olymplan Springs for a prospecting visit to the salt spring, as water filled the holes dug and hampered them so that not much work was done. No sign of prehistoric bones was seen.

The party also was unable to find a rock house in which it was said natives had found evidences of ancient occupation, according to those who returned Sunday night. Dr. A. M. Miller, of the University of Kentucky, leader of other exploration parties, was unable to go to Bath county because of the death of Judge W. T. Lafferty, dean of the College of Law, but Professor J. W. Abele, of the Department of Geology, Victor K. Dodge, Gilbert Smith, J. W. McCollum and several students were in the party.

Paris, Ky., Nov. 11.—Judge James C. Dedman today upheld the contract of the Burley Growers' Association in its suit against Garret Watts wealthy Fayette county farmer charged by the association with breaking his contract and selling his tobacco over loose leaf warehouse floors. Judgment of three hundred and twenty-five dollars and cost was given the association. There being a question as to the amount of tobacco grown by Watts last year and therefore of the amount he should have delivered the association. This is the first of a number of suits filed or to be filed by the association against alleged contract breakers.

The association is represented in the litigation by Franklin, Talbot and Chapman, of Lexington, and Worthington, Browning and Reed of Maysville, and Mr. Watts' attorney is Judge George C. Webb of Lexington.

Great interest was taken in the outcome of this case throughout the entire state. Members of the Burley association keenly awaited the outcome of this first test trial.

WEEKS' DAILY DOZEN FOR UNCLE SAM.

While the State Department is formulating and putting into execution a definite Latin American policy which will create concord in the Western Hemisphere, the War Department under the leadership of Secretary Weeks is speedily shaping its large plans for national defense. Already they have proceeded much beyond the trestle-board stage. It was Secretary Weeks' idea in 1917, as it is today, and as it was a score of years ago for that matter, to coordinate the man-power, industry, agriculture, finance, transportation, hospitalization and leadership for the United States so that we will have that preparedness for national defense which is the best assurance for peace. As Senator from Massachusetts when we entered the war he strove to secure the Joint Committee on the Conduct of the War which would undoubtedly have achieved something in the way of such coordination had the resolution providing for it been permitted by President Wilson to prevail. Counsel ridiculed then is respected now.

On November 16-18 a number of prominent civilians connected with educational institutions and national and local organizations interested in the mental, moral, and physical development of American youth, will attend a conference at the War Department with representatives of the Federal Government to discuss co-operation. "The need for a concerted effort to increase the physical fitness of the young men of our country was further evidenced this summer," says the call to the conference, "when it was found, in some sections of the country, the rate of physical defectives exceeded 100 per 1000 of the young men who applied to attend the Citizens Military Training Camps."

The War Department mentions a number of non-Federal agencies interested in developing young manhood, such as the home, the church, the schools, Boy Scouts, etc., which undertake the training of youth up to the secondary school age, and the Federal Government desires to know how it can assist. The War Department desires to operate to the maximum advantage those of its agencies which exercise any direction of the young men of the nation, such as the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, Citizens Military Training Camps, etc., and this without introducing any of the debilitating influences of governmental paternalism into the scheme of things. "Development in young manhood," declares Secretary Weeks, "of vigorous and disciplined mind and body, co-operative spirit and sense of obligation and duty to country assures the highest type of citizen—and gives strength to the nation." In fact, the Weeks' program calls for the application on a national scale of the Daily Dozen to American youth. It may be depended on to cure "isms" as effectively as the Camp methods cures "itises."

AN AWAKENING IS NEEDED

The sun never seems to set without having witnessed some fresh and sensational American murder. At the present time a string of drab cases extends almost from ocean to ocean, and in every instance there is an involvement of the eternal triangle. Disgusting sentimentality is rife, and a dangerous tendency toward making a private code take the place of the law, is observable. Women are being praised for taking the law into their own hands. Men are being upheld for shooting down the despoiler. The crowd follows every sentimental appeal and twist with nods of approval, entirely careless of the fact that these tendencies are robbing the courts of their just functions, and making a mockery of legal justice.

If this sort of thing continues unchecked, the American public may come to look upon plain murder as more or less of a personal privilege in certain common circumstances. Already the initial reaction from the news of a fresh killing is one of frank curiosity rather than of horror. The public is more moved by the drab details of a lison exposed by a pistol, than by the killing which the pistol has brought about. A portion of the public makes heroes and heroines of gun users, and extols as a high virtue the jealous rage which inspires a slaying.

This attitude undoubtedly has been partly responsible for the wave of shootings which has swept the country. Our courts must sit sternly above this fog of sentimentality and gush, if murder is not to become even more of a popular pastime in the United States than it is.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

COMMENT

Persimmons are ripe and so are pumpkin pies.

Persons who pose as instructors must do some instructing if they expect to hold the confidence of those they are supposed to instruct.

Another fellow who qualifies for membership in the old order which takes its name from the father of the mule is that bird who never has a good word for anyone but who is always ready to swing a heavy hammer upon anyone who happens to be mentioned in conversation.

Enthusiasm wanes and everything grows common as time goes on. Lot of difference between November 11, 1922, and November 11, 1918, in Maysville, wasn't there? We have been at peace for four years.

This is the day of cartoons. Everybody is interested in the "funny page" of the daily newspapers. Almost as much interest in Andy Gump's race for Congress in Maysville as there was in Fields or Stricklin. We are going to have a chance to see a real cartoonist at work at the High School Friday night.

The election of petty officers to be held in December is the last chance the present City Council will have to dish out patronage. Here's hoping the Councilmen and the Mayor don't have the same trouble getting together that they had last December.

Things come out alright in the end—sometimes. Although the railroad and mine strikes threw a scare into the coal consumers, the mild, summer-like fall has thrown a bigger scare into the coal barons.

Death has laid a heavy hand on Maysville during the past month. Without an epidemic, the city and county have lost many citizens, some of them among the leaders of the community. Our community has been struck a violent blow from which we shall never fully recover, for, while there will come others to take their places, the personality and individuality of those who have been called had been stamped upon the community and these things cannot be duplicated.

Columnists and humorists have made much fun of the old family album but there's still something about it for we old-time, common folk that sorta gives us a different thrill as we look through it. We were taught that next to the family Bible, it was the most sacred thing about the home and it is almost sacrilegious to us to hear or read a joke on the honored old book. In this day we don't look at the family album or read the family Bible enough. If you haven't both in your home, we pity you.

Is there any wonder that there is elench between the present day students of science and religious leaders on the fundamentals of Christianity when such conditions as these exist in our great institutions of learning? President Thompson, of the Ohio State University brings a terrible indictment against our state colleges when he says that a boy might be a hachelor or master in almost any one of the best state institutions, and yet "be as ignorant of the Bible, the moral and spiritual truth which it represents and the fundamental principles of religion, their nature and value to society as if he had been educated in a non-Christian country."

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

Then I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."—Mrs. T. A. LANDRY, 612 Miss. St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"As it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

TODD FARMER ROTATES CROPS BY GOOD SYSTEM.

Lexington, Ky. — D. N. Russell, a Todd county farmer, living in the southern part of the county, is using a system of rotating crops on his farm that could be used with good results by many other farmers of the state according to R. E. Stephenson, soils specialist of the College of Agriculture, who has just returned from there. Chief among the good points of Mr. Russell's rotation is the fact that he has a legume, sweet clover, growing on his land at least half of the time. Almost all the fertility from this clover goes back to the land either in the form of manure produced by the grazing animals or in the form of the crop remains which are plowed under. In addition, Mr. Russell's rotation provides for some growing crop on the land all the time, thus leaving no bare fields to wash and leach. The rotation includes corn or tobacco followed by wheat with the sweet clover sown in the wheat.

The sweet clover is pastured off to some extent but for the most part is allowed to mature seed. The matured seed crop is plowed under for corn or tobacco and another round of the rotation started. After the first seeding of sweet clover in this rotation, no more seedings are necessary as a seed crop is plowed under once each rotation.

Mr. Russell this last summer had one field of sweet clover which had gone one round of the rotation. The clover had come back from the seed plowed under and made a dense stand in spite of the fact that it was topped when the wheat was cut and in addition had been grazed with cattle. Next year, this clover should produce a large amount of grazing, judging from the growth made during this last summer. In addition, enough seed should be matured to turn under.

The soil on which the rotation is being used comes from the St. Louis limestone formation and is a rich type when cared for properly. A light application of limestone and acid phosphate is all that is needed to give legumes, such as sweet clover a start. There are thousands of acres of these limestone soils in the state that can be kept in a high state of fertility through the use of a rotation such as Mr. Russell's.

GASOLINE NEEDS OF 1923.

It is estimated that there will be 13,500,000 gasoline engines in use in 1923. Figuring an average of 420 gallons of fuel a year for each, the petroleum industry will have to provide 5,670,000,000 gallons of gasoline during the twelve months beginning January 1. At the present rate of one barrel of gasoline to four barrels of crude, this would require a crude oil production of 540,000,000 barrels.

The rules are simple
The reward is priceless

THE whole scheme of progress is based on the desire for enjoyment. But without health, you cannot enjoy life.

If your nerves are irritated and weakened by the effects of coffee or tea drinking, you cannot have good health. If you can't sleep nights, and you suffer from headaches, and are generally depressed, stop coffee and tea. Drink delicious Postum instead, and see if you don't feel better.

Postum is a pure cereal drink that satisfies the most exacting taste for a refreshing hot beverage.

Order Postum from your grocer today. Give this delicious beverage a fair trial, and like thousands of others you will never go back to coffee or tea again.

Postum is sold by your grocer in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling fully twenty minutes.

SCARLET FEVER IN DISCUSSED BY HEALTH OFFICER

Dr. Guttard Tells Something About
Symptoms of Children's Disease and Means of Guarding Against Its Spread.

The following is issued by Dr. V. D. Guttard, County Health Officer:

Scarlet fever is a disease which is highly communicable, and is transmitted to others by secretions from the nose, throat, or ear of the affected person. This is done by coughing, sneezing or by the fingers, which become contaminated with discharges from the nose, mouth or secretions from a discharge.

Smiling ear.

Handkerchiefs, clothing and bed linen used by the sick are often the cause of new cases appearing. Toys and books used by scarlet fever patients are often responsible for the spread of this disease. Even the harmless, necessary cat has been known to transmit scarlet fever on account of having its fur soiled by secretions from a patient.

Young children are more susceptible than adults. It is very important to protect young children from exposure to others affected. This disease varies greatly in its severity. Some very severe cases result fatally in a few days, or a mild case may develop complications, involving the kidney, heart, ears or brain.

It is commonly supposed that when a patient is convalescing and begins to "peel off," that is the time when the disease is most dangerous as regards giving it to others. This is not however the case. By experiments upon animals, it has been found that in the early stages of the disease, when the secretions from nose are abundant, the greatest danger exists.

The earliest symptoms are a sudden change for health to illness, accompanied by vomiting, high fever and sore throat. This is followed by a rash or eruption on the neck and chest which spreads over the entire body. Red pin head spots appear on the tongue a little later.

When such symptoms appear in a child, it should be put to bed, and others except the one taking care of it, excluded from the room and a physician immediately summoned.

Isolate the child as completely as possible from the other parts of the house and follow the instructions of your physician as to the length of time of quarantine.

The proper disposal of discharges from the nose, throat and ears is of the greatest importance in preventing the spread of the disease. Pieces of cloth or paper napkins should be provided in abundance to receive all discharges.

In order to keep scarlet fever from gaining headway in a community all children who have been associated with the patient should be kept at home for seven days and observed for any symptoms mentioned above.

To protect others the law requires that a placard stating that a case of contagious disease exists, must be posted near the entrance to the house apartment or room in which the patient is isolated.

MARY CARR MADE GUEST OF HONOR B YGOV. EDWARDS.

The Kiddle Carnival which was held at Union Hill, N. J., Saturday afternoon, October 21, had Mary Carr, "Mother of the Movies," as the guest of honor. In the letter of invitation from Governor Edwards, of New Jersey, that gentleman used the expression "On behalf of the kiddies the state of New Jersey, to whom you have endeared yourself through your remarkable work on the movie screen," and finished up with "trusting that no other engagement will prevent your personal appearance at this big event, and that the kiddies will get their first opportunity of seeing the 'Mother of the Screen'."

Mrs. Carr recently attended the opening of her latest Fox production "Silver Wings," in Boston, where she was given the key to the city by Mayor Curley. As the mother of six boys and girls, she has the deep understanding of a fond warm love for, the little people, and makes her impersonations of the mother-heroes of her pictures so convincing. "It is doubtful," she remarked, after accepting Governor Edwards' invitation, "that any of the children will have a better time or enjoy themselves more than I shall next Saturday afternoon."

charges. All these should be afterwards burned. The patient should have separate dishes and eating utensils. These must be boiled after using. If the patient is properly isolated, the adult members who do not come in contact with the patient or his secretions may continue their usual vocations.

In order to keep scarlet fever from gaining headway in a community all children who have been associated with the patient should be kept at home for seven days and observed for any symptoms mentioned above.

CHILD WHO DRANK LYE

SLOWLY STARVES TO DEATH.

Louisville, Ky. — Gradual starvation which was caused by lye she swallowed resulted in the death of four-year-old Lillian May Holsclaw at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Holsclaw. Three years ago Mrs. Holsclaw was washing clothes, and Lillian May, then a year old and learning to walk, wanted a drink. She took a glass filled with concentrated lye. Her mother saw her drink a small portion of it. A physician was called, but the child showed no ill effects until a week. From then on she was ill about every other day. Five specialists were called at various times. For the last six months the child had been unable to swallow, and she was kept alive by artificial food. Despite this, she slowly starved.

Mr. and Mrs. James Doran and Mrs. Jerome Wate Stewart were visitors from Flemingsburg Tuesday.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the M. E. Church, South, will meet Wednesday afternoon at 2:30.

SIXTEEN YEARS' PENALTY FIXED FOR KENTON TEACHER

Youthful School Teacher Held Responsible for Death of Girl Student Sentenced to Sixteen Years Imprisonment—Appeal Failed.

"It is the decision of the Court that you be taken to the penitentiary and there confined at hard labor for a term of sixteen years," said Judge F. M. Tracy in the Kenton Circuit Court Monday in passing sentence on Thomas Schree, 21 years old, who was convicted by a jury several months ago in connection with the death of Zelma Clemons.

John B. O'Neal, representing Schree, filed a motion for a new trial three weeks ago, but this was overruled by Judge Tracy. The case now will be taken to the Kentucky Court of Appeals.

Schree had been employed as a teacher at the Bracht School during the previous winter, and Zelma Clemons, 14 years old, daughter of Lee Clemons, a wealthy farmer, attended the school. After a visit to Covington the girl returned home and became ill, gradually getting worse until she died on May 23.

Schree was arrested on May 25 and taken before Judge John B. Read in the County Court. Judge Read fixed his bond at $15,000, which was signed by Thomas Schree, Sr., also a wealthy farmer of Bracht Station. The young schoolteacher remained out on bond until he was convicted on last July 7, when he was placed in the Covington jail where he will remain until the higher court has passed on his case.

Physicians who attended the girl after her return home from Covington said she underwent an operation while in Covington. Further than that, they refused to discuss the case.

LEGISLATOR'S WIFE IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT.

Barbourville, Ky., Nov. 13.—Mrs. John M. Tinsley was instantly killed, her husband, John M. Tinsley, was seriously injured and his brother, Judge W. W. Tinsley, and Mrs. William Tomlinson were less seriously hurt when Mr. Tinsley's automobile was struck by a Louisville & Nashville freight train at a grade crossing eight miles from here.

HOW THEY BREAK IT UP IN COVINGTON.

Drunken auto drivers will be barred from the use of Covington streets, according to an announcement made Monday by Judge Manson in the Covington Police Court. The court said: "No one can drive an auto on the streets of Covington while intoxicated and expect to get away with it."

S. Meyers, 27 years old, boilermaker, 19 Spring street, Covington, was fined $100 and sentenced to serve thirty days in jail. Meyers stalled his auto near Fourth and Scott streets late Saturday night and caused a congestion of traffic. When approached by Chief Hawk and ordered to move, Meyers showed flight.
